

TRANSACTIONAL

We handle complex domestic and international transactions before numerous federal, state and international regulatory authorities, from start-ups to multinational companies. Our transactional experience includes:

- drafting and negotiating stock purchase agreements, asset purchase agreements, and merger agreements
- providing advice in connection with regulatory due diligence efforts required for equity investments, license transfers, and transactions involving participants in the FCC's E-Rate program
- prosecuting applications for license assignment and transfer before the FCC
- bankruptcy restructuring matters including providing regulatory and transactional advice to official committees of unsecured creditors of FCC regulated entities in bankruptcy
- structuring and negotiating retransmission consent agreements with multi-channel video providers

We support our communications clients in all facets of their data services and Internet businesses, including advising on critical strategic issues and relations, negotiating and drafting complex network service agreements for carriers and large users that involve traditional telecom and next-generation services, helping to develop next-generation broadband networks, drafting and negotiating new technology and other distribution templates, and acquiring and distributing media content.
