When working with emerging businesses, we strive to become as knowledgeable as possible with our individual client's business objectives and overall goals. Sheppard Mullin attorneys also provide access to the firm's outside relationships with accountants, angel investors, venture capitalists, strategic planners, among others and as appropriate. It is our objective to provide added value as a trusted advisor to our clients. Because cash flow is always a primary concern for emerging companies, the firm offers various fee arrangements that are tailored to the specific needs of our clients, such as deferring some of our fees for a period of time and participating to a larger extent in the future success of the company.

Sheppard Mullin also serves as counsel to underwriters and investment bankers in a larger number of equity, debt and convertible securities offerings and merger and acquisition transactions, making us a "one stop" law firm providing the full range of the legal services to all commercial ventures.
