Kevin Cloutier is a partner in the Labor and Employment and Business Trial Practice Groups. Kevin is the Leader of the Firm's Non-Compete and Trade Secrets Teams. He is a member of the Firm's Diversity and Inclusion and Compensation Committees and acts as the hiring partner for the Firm's Chicago office.

Areas of Practice

Kevin's national practice focuses on all areas of labor and employment law and business litigation, with an emphasis on high-stakes, employment-related litigation and proactive investigations and counseling of management-side clients. He is consistently recognized by his peers as one of the leading lawyers in Illinois and nationally, and has been named a Labor and Employment Star by Benchmark Litigation. On several occasions, former adversaries (both adverse party companies and former opposing counsel who have moved in-house) have retained Kevin and his team following the conclusion of adversarial litigation. Kevin enjoys long-standing and deep relationships with many of his clients, and several have retained Sheppard Mullin as they have moved to different in-house positions. Clients consistently praise Kevin and his team for their responsiveness, loyalty, and outstanding results. Consistent with this team-based approach, Kevin's varied and balanced practice includes the following areas:

Litigation and Trial Work

Kevin is an experienced trial lawyer with first-chair trial experience before state and federal trial and appellate courts all over the country, arbitrators, FINRA, the National Labor Relations Board, and administrative agencies. He has successfully argued multiple law-changing and precedent-setting federal appeals on behalf of his clients. Kevin has represented clients in more than 25 states.

Kevin defends employers of all sizes in restrictive covenant and trade secrets actions, class and collective actions, multi-plaintiff and single-plaintiff cases, including whistleblower and whistleblower retaliation actions, breach of contract actions, statutory employment claims, wage and hour claims, antitrust, deceptive trade practices, unfair competition, defamation, retaliatory discharge, negligent hiring and retention, reverse discrimination claims, white-collar criminal matters, traditional labor law, employee privacy and BIPA, tort and contract claims, credit reporting "background" claims, and ERISA benefits claims.

Kevin is recognized as one of the nation's leading unfair competition, "non-compete" and trade secrets lawyers and regularly prosecutes and defends actions involving the enforcement of restrictive covenants and non-competes, deceptive trade practices, trade secret claims, the Lanham Act, unfair competition and employee raiding claims. Kevin and his team routinely prosecute and defend expedited proceedings, often mobilizing on a moment's notice and obtaining successful expedited injunctive results (temporary restraining orders and preliminary injunctions) within days of a client engagement. Kevin is the co-head of the Firm's trade secrets and restrictive covenant teams. Kevin and his team brought one of the first lawsuits invoking the federal Defend Trade Secrets Act in 2016. He also assists clients with litigation over partnership dissolutions, deceptive trade practices and business/partner/joint-venture "break-ups."

In addition, Kevin manages class and collective actions, related to all forms of wage and hour disputes, including overtime and independent contractor issues. He regularly designs and then leads creative and successful defense strategies for complex class and collective actions. Most recently, he defeated conditional certification of an "off-the-clock" claim in federal court in Florida, gutting a collective of over 80,000 class members.

Internal Investigations

Kevin regularly conducts internal investigations for employers, boards of directors, and special committees. Kevin and his team are experienced and skilled investigators, handling a variety of investigatory matters involving whistleblower claims, harassment and workplace misconduct, code of conduct violation claims, self-dealing and embezzlement, conflicts of interest, insider trading, false claims, procurement processes, and other workplace issues. In these investigations, Kevin and his team typically interview multiple witnesses, review and analyze salient documents, analyze forensic accounting materials and electronically stored information, and then prepare analytical reports for his clients. He also works with governmental agencies such as the OIG, DOJ and DOL in connection with outside investigations. Kevin's investigatory work cuts across industries and geographies; Kevin's most recent investigations occurred in Arizona, Texas, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Georgia and Florida. Kevin and his team also proactively investigate and assess client business plans to enter new sectors, markets and ventures, often involving potential trade secrets and NDA issues. Finally, Kevin regularly assists clients in investigating possible trade secrets misappropriation matters, often partnering with forensics experts.

Corporate Transactions and Private Equity

Kevin is a member of the firm's Private Equity Team and routinely represents funds and their portfolio companies in a variety of litigation and counseling matters. He also performs due diligence for fund and other corporate clients in connection with mergers and acquisitions and regularly counsels them in connection with post-acquisition transition and restructuring issues. Kevin regularly prepares employment agreements, separation agreements, non-disclosure and confidentiality agreements, employee handbooks and human resources policies. He also counsels clients on the employment-related aspects of mergers, acquisitions and other corporate transactions.

Counseling and Advice

In addition to his litigation and investigative experience, Kevin operates as a general employment and trade practices counselor to his clients and regularly advises and coaches human resource professionals and other business executives on how to comply with various human resources and employment laws. Kevin is a former high school teacher and he enjoys counseling his clients. He also frequently presents training sessions on critical employment issues, such as harassment prevention and investigation, responding to whistleblower complaints, independent contractor classification, restrictive covenant, trade secret and non-compete situations, trade practices, unfair competition wage payment and overtime FLSA compliance, employee privacy and biometrics, conducting effective workplace investigations, union avoidance and awareness, FMLA and time-off issues, reductions-in-force, labor disputes and general human resources strategies.

Further, Kevin assists multinational clients, primarily Canadian-based entities, in cross-border labor and employment issues in the U.S. He partners with multinational clients on strategic planning, compliance, global movement of employees and employee compensation and benefits issues. In addition, Kevin has established strong relationships with local counsel in many countries and frequently partners with foreign counsel to assist clients.

Kevin's client base is broad and geographically diverse and includes employers in private equity, venture capital, real estate, REITs, digital marketing and advertising, investment services, construction services, transportation, housing, food and beverage, security services, computer hardware and software, eBusiness, energy, logistics, financial services, retail, healthcare, pharmaceuticals, software development, insurance and manufacturing.

In addition to his corporate work, Kevin is committed to pro bono work and has successfully represented several prisoner and of-need clients in important federal court litigation. He also regularly counsels non-profit social services agencies on a wide range of employment matters.
