Topic:

Tribes Are Prime Targets: Threats and Solutions for Cybersecurity & Criminal Activity

About:

Tribal governments hold valuable customer and citizen data, have large payrolls, and are moving transactions online. In addition, tribal governments own some of the largest businesses with high volumes of cash transactions – ranging from banks to gaming to cannabis. All of these activities potentially attract criminals in cyberattacks, money laundering, and trafficking. Tribal governments need to keep up with current cyber and on-site criminal trends and build systems that monitor and report all crimes across operations for better prevention and compliance. Our panelists will discuss trends and ways to monitor activity to protect tribal assets.
