Fostering a workforce and corporate culture that values diversity and inclusion (D&I) is essential for a company's success and survival. However, many companies struggle with how to incorporate authentic D&I programs without violating state and federal anti-discrimination laws.

Join Cisive and author and employment law attorney Adam Rosenthal on Wednesday, Aug. 18 at 1 PM CT / 2 PM ET for a complimentary learning session covering best practices for employers on how to legally promote D&I initiatives in the workplace.

Plus, Cisive is giving away 3 signed copies of Adam's book, "Managing Employees Without Fear!" You must attend the live session to learn how.

This webinar will highlight the follow key topics:

- The benefits of having a robust D&I program
- How to promote D&I initiatives without violating anti-discrimination laws
- Infusing D&I objectives in the recruitment process
- How to train hiring managers on interviewing candidates with a D&I and compliance mindset
