Sheppard Mullin's Food and Beverage Industry Team helps food and beverage clients build their businesses, growing their brands, and increasing their bottom lines with experienced representation in brand development and protections, labor and employment issues, accessing capital, product liability, regulatory, patent and trademarks, immigration, privacy, and tax. The food and beverage industry is among the most competitive and globally-linked of all business sectors. To ensure your company is on the cutting edge, you need a law firm that understands your business and can assist you in expanding into new markets and developing new business strategies that can capitalize on the global market, while protecting your products and brands along the way.

We represent over 200 food and beverage clients, ranging from startups to multinational corporations. We represent food manufacturers, beverage manufacturers including producers of wine and craft beer and spirits, distributors, retailers, wholesalers, food equipment manufacturers, restaurants and "fast food" outlets, grocery and convenience stores, superstores, food safety companies, and industry trade associations.

Advertising and Promotions

Food and beverage companies are utilizing new and sophisticated marketing, advertising and promotions to increase market share and brand awareness. We work with clients on virtually every dimension of new media marketing, including endorsements and viral marketing; sponsored and native advertising; social media advertising and consumer-generated content, contests and promotions, and numerous other legal issues associated with developing media channels. We specialize in these issues from both counseling and litigation perspectives.

Americans with Disabilities Act

We are one of the few large law firms that specializes in defending disability access discrimination claims under the Americans with Disabilities Act and related state law. We have represented a number of food service clients, including national restaurant chains, supermarket chains, and specialty food and beverage stores. We advise clients on the latest developments in disability access law, including issues relating to class actions and the accessibility requirements of websites, mobile applications, and other new media. Our practice also includes advising on landlord/tenant disputes, implementing policies and procedures to train employees about accessibility laws, and interacting with state agencies to address access concerns.

Corporate Finance/Mergers and Acquisitions

We handle the private placement of securities, representing issuers, private placement agents, equity funds, institutional investors and venture capital firms and have been on the vanguard of private financing transactions, including seed financing angel investments, venture capital financing, later stage equity or mezzanine financing, PIPES and private debt financing. And when it is time to go shopping or be shopped, we offer our clients a savvy and talented group of M&A attorneys that "does deals" throughout the United States and overseas. We advise on all types of M&A transactions and pride ourselves on our pragmatic approach to getting deals done.

Creditors' Rights and Bankruptcy

While your business may flourish, others you are dealing with may not always be so fortunate. Whether it is a customer in bankruptcy, a vendor in receivership, or a supplier in an assignment for the benefit of creditors, we work to protect your rights, minimize losses, and maximize the return on your claim. We also advise on buy-side distress M&A transactions, helping clients navigate acquisitions of targets in distress.

FDA and Regulatory Matters

We advise food, dietary supplement and beverage clients on all regulatory matters involving product development, novel ingredients, food labeling, product claims and marketing. Additionally, we advise on recalls and adverse events, novel food distribution models, supply chain security, good manufacturing practices (GMP) and other matters governed by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act and implementing regulations, its state-law equivalents, including California's Sherman Law, the federal Food Safety and Modernization Act, and implementing regulations. We also advise on matters falling under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, including organic and claims.

Intellectual Property

We represent and advise clients in all aspects of trademark and copyright law, including clearance, prosecution, maintenance and enforcement of trademarks and copyrights worldwide; licensing and distribution agreements; supplier, manufacturer, and vendor agreements; grey market and counterfeiting issues; marketing practices; and adversarial proceedings in U.S. courts and before the Patent and Trademark Office.

Labor and Employment

We understand complaints and lawsuits brought by employees and former employees can be damaging to the growth, profitability, and public image of your business. We counsel and represent clients in labor relations, discrimination complaints, employment agreements and terminations, affirmative action programs, immigration, reductions in force, employee benefits, and executive compensation. We defend and advise clients on wage and hour, discrimination and harassment, and wrongful termination claims, with special expertise in wage and hour class actions involving meal and rest period compliance and tip-pooling. Our attorneys take a preventative approach and help you identify and anticipate employee complaints, governmental agency actions, and union problems.

Litigation and Dispute Resolution

We have experience protecting our clients and their brands from false advertising and product labeling claims, not just in the "Food Court" in Northern California, but also in courts throughout California, New York, and Illinois. Many defendants feel pressure to settle quickly. Sheppard Mullin offers an alternative. Our attorneys are skilled at creating strategies that eliminate or limit false advertising cases before trial, e.g., through dispositive motions, by defeating class certification, or attacking the economics of a damages model. We also have a strong track record taking these cases to trial, when necessary. We know the law, the opposition, and the judges, and we know how to protect our clients from liability. Whatever the dispute, we partner with our clients every step of the way to deliver solid, cost-efficient results.

Privacy and Data Security

As food and beverage businesses expand their operations on the internet and via mobile apps, they require experienced legal counsel regarding website development and search engine agreements, trademarks and co-branding, data privacy and cybersecurity. We partner with clients to identify and resolve regulatory compliance needs, craft and implement privacy and data security policies, and address emerging developments, including the legal issues presented by the accumulation of “Big Data.” We also help clients prepare for data breach incidents, respond when such incidents occur, and provide counseling on privacy matters arising from mergers and acquisitions, joint venture and strategic alliance formations.

Proposition 65

If you manufacture, sell, or distribute any product directly or indirectly in California – through a distributor, online or otherwise – you need to understand and comply with Prop 65. We have experience in all aspects of Prop 65, including compliance, response to notices of intent to sue, defense of lawsuits and appeals. We routinely guide clients, both large and small, through the process of responding to 60-Day Notice letters, interfacing with the California Attorney General’s Prop 65 unit, and defending enforcement actions in court. Our main goal is to help you avoid government and private enforcement actions in the first place, and when that is not always possible, we can help you assess and implement a Prop 65 compliance program that will minimize the likelihood of an enforcement action. We also can audit your website to make sure you are following best practices. We will work with you to develop creative solutions to foster early resolution of claims, from pre-lawsuit negotiations to accelerated litigation and appeal of key issues.

Public Policy and Government Affairs

Our Washington, D.C. office has extensive lobbying and government relations expertise. We advocate on behalf of our clients at the executive, legislative and regulatory levels. We also provide our clients with the latest information with respect to government proposals and other anticipated developments in Washington, D.C., and across the country. We build upon our existing relationships to effectively communicate our clients’ positions to lawmakers and key officials. We help testify and draft legislation. We also regularly file comments during rulemaking and represent clients in agency proceedings. At the federal level, we submit comments to regulatory agencies, including to, among others, the U.S. Department of Labor, the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, and the National Labor Relations Board.

Real Estate Development and Leasing

We represent all types of clients in real property ownership and development and have experience in commercial leasing transactions, including the unique issues of urban and suburban mixed use retail, shopping centers, office space, industrial parks, distribution centers, and build-to-suits.
