

Ongoing cyber threat posed by Iran

CBS Newspath

01.13.2020

Sheppard Mullin partner Jonathan Meyer and former deputy general counsel at the Department of Homeland Security, spoke with Natalie Brand at CBS Newspath regarding how potential cyber threats from Iran extend well beyond just military targets. According to Meyer, “Iran would certainly like to go after government systems, but that’s not to the exclusion of private sector systems. It’s easier to go after private sector systems because there is more of them and it’s easier to find weak links.”

Practice Areas

Privacy and Cybersecurity