

The Underutilization of "Racketeering" Claims in Restrictive Covenant Cases

New York Law Journal
10.27.2020

Authored by: Jack Kiley, partner (NY), Kevin Smith, special counsel (NY), and Jamie Moelis, law clerk (NY)

Recovering triple damages plus attorney fees should sound enticing to any business seeking to stop unscrupulous former employees and their new employers attempting to steal trade secrets and unfairly compete; surprisingly, few businesses bring claims under the Racketeer influenced and Corrupt organizations Act even though RICO, in certain cases, would allow for such relief. Sheppard Mullin attorneys discussed this concept in further detail in an article for The New York Law Journal.

Attorneys

John E. Kiley

Jamie Moelis

Kevin J. Smith

Practice Areas

Labor and Employment