Hannah J. Wigger is an associate with Sheppard Mullin in the firm's Business Trial Practice Group.

Areas of Practice

Hannah represents clients in complex business litigation disputes, domestic and international arbitrations, and technical regulatory matters across the U.S. She has experience litigating claims across multiple industries involving disputes related to healthcare, telecommunications and satellites, commercial breaches of contract, and questions of statutory interpretation and administrative law. She also advises cable operators and other broadband providers in disputes related to access to rights-of-way, infrastructure deployment, pole attachments and a host of related topics.

Hannah is dedicated to representing and working with her pro bono clients. She represents clients seeking asylum in the United States. She also represents an environmental organization in federal court actions arising under the Endangered Species Act.
