Skyler Hicks is an associate in the Business Trial Practice Group in the firm's San Francisco office.

Areas of Practice

Skyler represents clients in civil litigation and copyright and trademark disputes. He also handles pro bono matters involving First Amendment issues and assists with asylum applications.

During law school, Skyler was a member of the Southern California Review of Law and Social Justice and published a paper in the USC Entertainment Law Journal. In addition to successfully mediating dozens of disputes in Los Angeles Superior Court as part of USC's Mediation Clinic, Skyler also interned at the Sundance Institute, for USC's Office of Athletic Compliance, for the Honorable Michael J. Fitzgerald, and at the ACLU.
