About:

As the use of open source software continues to grow, so do the number of open source licenses and the complexity of the issues. This webinar will provide an update on:

- New open source licenses that impact the use of open source with cloud-based deployments
- A growing number of patent lawsuits against open source
- Comprehensively defining “open source” - how some “standard” definitions of “open source” miss licenses that should be included
- The growing need for comprehensive open source policies
