2022 saw several significant legislative and regulatory changes finalized, court decisions issued, and additional changes proposed that will impact how the Federal Government and other payors pay for and cover prescription drugs. Perhaps the most significant of these changes are those in the Inflation Reduction Act of 2022, which includes drug pricing reforms, benefit design changes to Medicare Part D and other changes.

Join us for a discussion of the implications for drug manufacturers, payors and providers of recent legislative and regulatory changes, court decisions and pending proposals including:

- Inflation Reduction Act of 2022
- 2023 National Defense Authorization Act
- Changes to Medicare Part D for 2023 and proposed changes for 2024
- Prescription drug affordability rules to advance health equity
- 340B Litigation
