This seminar will provide an important update on many new issues in the area of labor and employment law. We will discuss recent developments that apply to all employers and provide practical strategies that companies can use to reduce the risk of litigation. The topics include:

- Updates regarding meal and rest period class actions and new "best practice" compliance steps
- Policy changes required by the California Supreme Court's decision permitting same-sex marriages
- Strategies for navigating difficult wage and hour issues such as regular rate calculations, tip pooling, the administrative exemption, wage statements, and timekeeping policies
- Medical leave rules
- Guidance for avoiding disparate impact discrimination claims
- Developments regarding retaliation claims
- Recommendations for computer and email policies
- New guidelines for employee arbitration agreements
- Immigration enforcement and the "no-match letter safe harbor" program

- Layoffs and reductions in force
- And much more

This will be a lively and entertaining seminar that should not be missed.
