

As Sequestration Causes Push for Unrequited Patriotism, Government Contractors Should Just Say No - Interview with John Chierichella

LXBN TV

03.01.2013

As sequestration and the spending cuts that come with it stand to impact nearly all Americans, the effect is even more direct for the government contractors who rely on that spending to get paid. So as government procurement offices ask contractors to do more with less, and simply be more patriotic, our guest on LXBN TV says they should “just say no.” That guest is Sheppard Mullin Partner John Chierichella, author on the Government Contracts, Investigations & International Trade Blog.