

New World, New Rules, New Normal: Responding to Workplace COVID-19 Exposure

New York Law Journal
10.21.2021

This is the last article in a three-part series designed to help New York employers navigate their legal obligations concerning vaccination protocols that appear necessary for planning and implementing a safe and compliant return to work. In final installment, partner Brian Murphy and associate Lindsay Stone focus on how employers can and should respond to infection events and workplace exposure to COVID-19 among a fully or partially vaccinated workforce.
